

Day 1: Monday, Jan. 31st

An Initiative of Pikes Peak Habitat for Humanity in celebration of the 2022 UN's World Interfaith Harmony Week

Welcome to day one of the 2022 United Nation's World Interfaith Harmony Week! As Pikes Peak Habitat for Humanity kicks off celebrating this week, start off by learning a little more about the history of this global initiative below:

1 HISTORY

In 2010 the United Nation's General Assembly proclaimed the first week in February on an annual basis as World Interfaith Harmony Week. Since 2010 individuals, governments, and groups from around the world have joined the United Nations to recognize this special event. During this week, the United Nations calls on individuals, nations, and faith communities from around the world to join them in celebration of this event, and recognize the importance of Interfaith Dialogue.

2 INITIATIVE GOALS

There are many goals when celebrating World Interfaith Harmony Week including:

- 1) Recognizing the power and importance of interreligious & inter-belief dialogue
- 2) Promoting a culture of mutual understanding, respect and dignity for others
- 3) Unifying those with different beliefs, spiritual practices, and faith traditions
