

Day 3: Saturday, Feb. 3

An Initiative of Pikes Peak Habitat for Humanity in Celebration of the 2024 UN World Interfaith Harmony Week

For Day 3, Pikes Peak Habitat invites you to learn about one tangible way that you can support interfaith efforts in our community: Pikes Peak Habitat's Interfaith Build for Unity (IBU).

1 OVERVIEW

This project brings together volunteers from different backgrounds, beliefs, spiritual practices, and faith traditions to work together in unity to help build affordable homes in El Paso County for families. We unite around the convictions that everyone deserves a decent, safe place to call home, and all faiths and beliefs can be put into action.

2 HOW IT WORKS

Congregations and communities from a variety of faiths volunteer side-by-side to build affordable homes in partnership with local families. Our IBU volunteer days celebrate tolerance, cooperation, and love for fellow human beings. Here's how it works:

- 1) Invite five members of your community to volunteer (no experience necessary). 16 years and older.
- 2) Your group is paired with a team of local volunteers from a different tradition. The two groups work together on the construction site, talk together over lunch, and stand unified as friends and equals.

3 DAILY ACTION OPTIONS

- 1) Attend the 3rd Interfaith Build for Unity Home Dedication Ceremony on Saturday, Feb. 24, 2024, from 10:30 – 11:30 a.m. at 5303 Beauport Dr., Colorado Springs, CO 80915.
- 2) Have a group of individuals who would like to volunteer from your faith community? Email Chloe@pikespeakhabitat.org to get involved!
- 3) Watch Interfaith America's video to learn more about the Interfaith Build for Unity.
